Concord University is proud to once again serve as a sponsor of the BRCCC Annual Business Show. Concord University is based in Mercer

County but its commitment to community has long extended well beyond its home campus in Athens. The Beckley-Raleigh County area is the focus of Concord's growing off-campus program by serving a large number of students every semester at the Erma Byrd Higher Education Center. In addition to business concentration in accounting, management and marketing, Concord's program in Beckley features a BS degree in social work, classes in teacher education and a full range of general studies courses designed to support these and Concord's other degree programs.

The staff of First Community Bank can be seen in many places around the Beckley area. They volunteer for school organizations, support non-profits and work with the chamber of commerce. But mostly, they can be seen helping residents and businesses with their financial needs. They take the time to understand you and help you reach your financial goals. Give them a call today and put the power of the community of financial experts to work for you.

Ramey Ford

Ramey Ford Beckley is proud to again be a sponsor for the 21st annual Beckley Business Show. In 2004, James C. Ramey, Sr. purchased the previous Patriot Ford dealership, increasing his already growing number of locations into the Beckley market. With dedication and a strong management and sales staff, the dealership has grown over the years to be Ramey's top producing location.

Last year, the Ramey family also announced plans to build a brand new facility in the Beckley area. The current location is leased and with the growing success of both the sales and service departments, the Rameys felt an upgrade was definitely in order. The planned location for this all new state-of-the-art facility is just south on Eisenhower Drive from the current Ramey lot, right in front of the Beckley-Raleigh County Convention Center. The new location will sit on over 6.5 acres and feature an updated design, an expanded show room as well as upgraded service and customer waiting areas.
